IV. Public Hearing Continuation – Beacon Court Definitive Subdivision (57 Robbins Street)

Mr. Bettez opened the public hearing at 7:45 PM and offered a brief process overview. Mr. Scott Hayes, project engineer of Foresite Engineering Associates, Inc., and the applicants, Messrs. Paul Gaboury and Glenn Kaufman of Centennial Homes, LLC were present. Beacon Court is proposed as a residential compound subdivision under section 10 of the subdivision rules.

Mr. Hayes provided an update:

- The BoH has issued the septic system permits.
- The ConCom voted to issue an order of conditions.
- Will work with ConCom and NHESP on restriction for protected species habitat area.

Ms. Montella inquired:

- About the adequacy of the design for fire engines and emergency vehicles (SU-30 design vehicles).

Mr. Hayes replied that there is adequate room in the turn around, but he can make changes to address any remaining concerns. There is not much more room, if any, for widening the in/out turn west at Robbins Street. Robbins Street west has no outlet; there is little or no occasion that fire apparatus would have to make this turn. The in/out turn east at Robbins Street is adequate.

- About the septic system reserve areas in between the proposed active systems. Mr. Hayes replied that this is standard design in accordance with Title V and B.o.H. regulations.

Mr. Bettez and Mr. Bartl reviewed previous Planning Board approvals of residential compound subdivisions, where the proof plan would have required demolition of existing houses.

Ms. Kilpatrick, an abutter:

- Do waivers from the Acton subdivision rules require variances from the Board of Appeals? A: The Planning Board may grant waivers from the subdivision rules. The Board of Appeals may grant variance from the Acton zoning bylaw.
- Concerned about adequacy for emergency vehicles – emergencies do occur in the neighborhood. Snow banks in winter further restrict maneuverability.

- There should be guest parking provided.
- Can heavy trucks travel over the proposed pervious pavement? A: Yes.
- There is an area in the back near the wetlands where old debris has been found (maybe paint cans, pipes, etc.).
- Asked that sump pumps in the new houses will not discharge onto her property.

Mr. Chin asked about the proposed driveway maintenance. Mr. Bartl noted that the Engineering Department has found the applicant's proposed maintenance procedures adequate.

Ms. Montella inquired:

- To verify that all roof areas drain into the proposed dry wells. A: yes.
- Can the applicant provide a temporary fence to protect abutter's septic system? A: yes.

A motion to close the public hearing was seconded and passed unanimously.

General direction to staff: Draft approval decision with conditions (review staff comments, landscape screening to Robbins Street, temporary fence, SU-30 radii, and sump pump).
